GRADING SMARTER, NOT HARDER

Assessment strategies that motivate kids and help them learn with author and educator,

MYRON DUECK

During his 23 years of teaching and administration, MYRON DUECK has developed grading, assessment and reporting systems that provide students greater opportunity to show what they understand, adapt to feedback, and play a significant role in the reporting of their learning. He shares his stories, tools and first-hand experiences with educators around the world. Myron's published work includes numerous articles and his best-selling book, Grading Smarter, Not Harder – Assessment Strategies that Motivate Kids and Help Them Learn (ASCD, 2014). His videos include projects based in his own school district, Smarter Assessment in the Secondary Classroom and Ask Them.

In this two-part session, Myron Dueck will explore an array of non-traditional grading, assessment and reporting tools. Topics will include:

- Discussing our purpose for education, grading, assessment and what it means to prepare students for the future.
- Exploring how we can build clear unit plans with students and design self-monitored retesting structures.
- Embracing authentic learning experiences and how we might develop rubrics to assess outside the box demonstrations of learning.
- Examining how changing some of the traditional rules around zeros, late work and homework can maintain grading accuracy and increase student responsibility.
